Developing Friendships

In June one of our teachers approached us with the idea of canvassing a few of our leaving years to establish what was important to the old boys while they were students here at St. Andrew's.

The academic section of the questionnaire rated the programs and skill development which prepared candidates for university life, and the results received in higher education. The extracurricular section included a rating system on all other fields of endeavour here at S.A.C. Part three dealt with school life in general and the final question covered what is important to you as old boys from the Association perspective.

Naturally the author leaves the digestion of questions academic to those professionally able to make recommendations for improvement.

While it is early to make a comprehensive case, a couple of interesting points can be made from school life, and alumni sections.

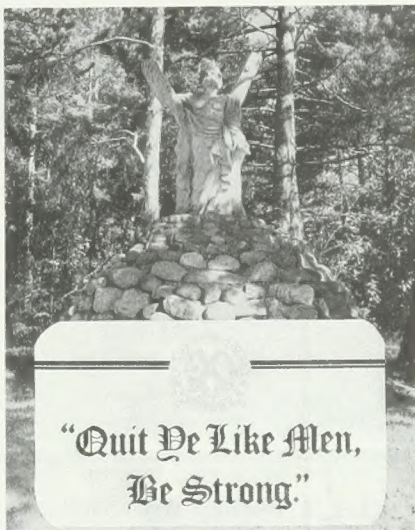

For old boys, The Andrean ranked at the top of the scale from those responding. The magazine has been very well received and we thank you for a steady stream of old boys news! Appealing to an audience of 18 to 80 years olds, as well as covering the "top stories" of the day, is an interesting exercise in political diplomacy.

Developing friendships was the top ranked subject in school life. Some respondents felt that friendships formed was as important as any other single element in their education.

I must say I agree.

The friendships I made as a student, and am still making as a result of taking this job three years ago, have been outstanding.

The memories of staff friends like Thube, Stan, Jack, Courtney and Lloyd take on new meaning when you see it from the other side.

Three years ago I didn't know the four Bedards and/or their graduating year.

Today I feel comfortable with hundreds of young old boys and keeping in touch with their progress. For they are the future of St. Andrew's. I'm relieved to know that among the new generation of Andreans are the most solid of citizens.

With the tremendous help of Past Association Presidents, David Rea '53 and Tom Holloran, current President, Scott Marshall '67 and incoming President John Housser '68, we have worked towards supporting the development of St. Andrew's in a very real and imaginative way.

Basically it comes down to "when we fundraise, we fundraise, and when we don't, we don't!" In other words – Association dinners and special events are priced (when there is a price) to break even. There was no fund raising at this year's Association dinner in May. Coincidentally, however, at the dinner the Ladies' Guild sold the most items in one event in their history!!

For the vast majority of Andreans, we ask you to support annual giving, once a year, every year.

The enthusiasm of the most recent grads being included in the annual giving program is most encouraging. The class of 1983 produced 31 donors – enough said.

The bottom line, of course, is people. The four young men pictured here are examples of the class of '88, not exceptions. There are many more.

Some of the people of our first ninety years are seen in the video "Quit Ye Like Men, Be Strong," a fond look at our history. The 10-minute video was produced with existing film, and we are indebted to Charlie Edwards '70 for his ideas, encouragement and support, and to Rob Parker '60 for his voice! It will make a valuable addition to your S.A.C. memories.

Thanks for helping me in the balancing act of wearing the two hats of alumni affairs and development. I urge you to "come back" and help us celebrate our ninetieth birthday.

Headmaster's Message

Big Shoes to Fill

Perhaps there are still a few people who haven't heard the news about the appointment of Geoff Smith, a legend to his colleagues and "Dad" to a generation of students. When the editors decided to immortalize Geoff through the pages of the respected Andean, I again sat down to try to put into words how much this man has meant to us.

Although now enthroned at the helm of King's – Edgehill, in Windsor, Nova Scotia, Geoff's "ghost" nevertheless lives on at S.A.C. We will miss this "Alf like" figure climbing up Yonge St. amid the traffic, we will miss the reams of documentation in every corner of his office (that only he could find at a moment's notice). The boys will miss his ever-ready ear, whether they wished to firm up the choice of program for university, or whether they insisted on the umpteenth amendment to their application.

Let's contemplate a typical day in the life of this teacher.

By the time the day boys begin to arrive, Geoff has already stored his bike, changed from his faded shorts, boots (size 14) and leather strapped helmet, showered in the basement of the school (no mess at home that way), and donned his number two.

After a visit to the Great Hall from which he emerges with the usual six muffins and cups of coffee, our hero aims for his office, turns on the computer, and, leaving the door open, finds his way to the common room to digest the latest news. He then steps into the hall and bellows his usually flattering comments to the straggling day boys resisting punctuality. On to the chapel, where he stations himself at the crossroads and conducts all kinds of business with the boys before and after they attend the morning service. Sometimes I wonder whether the boys arrive late on purpose only to incur the verbal wrath of the kindest and softest of men?

Already a line of boys has formed in Geoff's office, one on the phone, one fumbling through the papers, one reading about himself on the computer, all with legitimate and important requests.

By noon, the grade thirteens have learned more chemistry in forty minutes than their brain had a right to, the school secretary's load has been halved (thanks to Geoff's trusted word processor) and the Headmaster had been apprised on a number of situations. While The Head has been left dangling on more than one suggestion, and was formulating answers to questions, Geoff is on his way to the Great Hall, to once again direct and to impart important lessons of civility to whomever dares to step out of line.

Eating for Geoff is a time management exercise. He seems to be in every corner of the dining room at once, and occasionally, he will balance plate and fork in the direction of his mouth.

This is Wednesday afternoon – and back into his favourite clothes he picks up elusive doughnuts for the rugby game which begins at 1:30. Deciding that he has done all the coaching that his team can ingest at this time, he dons a striped shirt and finds his trusted whistle. Rugby is his love and through refereeing he can teach the subtleties of the game not only to his own team, but to the opponents as well.

Having made short shrift of the social formalities with the visiting coaches, Geoff returns to his office and "gets on the blower" to the liaison officers of dozens of universities. As he turns once more to his word processor, he suddenly realizes that Ginny has dinner on the table. He dons his trusty knapsack and pedals again down Yonge Street to the awe and reverence of the six o'clock traffic.

The picture drawn above doesn't begin to tell the real story. Perhaps paraphrasing my letter of recommendation to King's – Edgehill will give yet another dimension: "Geoff will be irreplaceable – not for his teaching of Chemistry, which is without parallel, not for his intellect which is second to none, not only for his acceptance by the boys – but for all those intangibles which often go unnoticed and without which our school would not be what it is today."

So much more could be written – none that would tell the whole story. One fact remains: Geoff has earned an important place in the history of St. Andrew's College. We will miss him and Ginny, and his presence will be felt for years to come.

Prize Day 1988 King Memorial Trophy

St. Andrew's is dedicated to the education and development of the total young man. Each Prize Day we recognize that special member of Macdonald House who excels in studies, games, deportment and character, with the presentation of the King Memorial Trophy. Many of its recipients have gone on to serve the school as Head Prefects, Team Captains and leaders in the Upper School. It certainly has become, over its thirty-eight year history, the most cherished prize for the boys in the Lower School Residence.

The trophy was first awarded in 1951 in the memory of two old boys of our school, Perry (38-39) and Bill King (36-37). It was donated by their mother, Mrs. William King and Perry's twin brother Dale (38-39), another old boy and former master at SAC.

Gene Cheung accepts The King Memorial Trophy from Mr. David Whitehead, Academic Director of the Lower School.

All three of the King brothers attended St. Andrew's for their Grade 12 year only. Soon after leaving S.A.C., Bill, Perry and Dale enlisted in the R.C.A.F. during the Second World War and the next few years were very hard on the King family.

Dale was taken as a prisoner of war in April 1943 at the age of 21 when his plane was shot down in an air raid over Berlin. He was later released and promoted to a flight lieutenant. He returned to S.A.C. as a master in 1950. Unfortunately neither Bill nor Perry survived the war. Bill was killed in a flying accident at Camp Borden in December 1943 at the age of 25, only two months after being married. Perry was killed in action over Malta in February 1943 at the age of 21.

The King Memorial Trophy is testament to the sacrifices made by three fine Andreans and the entire King family.

M. Hanson

Member of the Board of Governors, Ross Reucassel '56, presents The Christopher Ball Prize for distinguished overall contribution to the field of the Arts to Kenneth A. Cameron.

Lieutenant Governor Lincoln Alexander was guest speaker at prize day. His Honour touched the hearts of those present with an amusing speech full of special thoughts for the graduates and younger boys alike.

Craig Matheson accepts the Col. Tilston Best Effort Award for grade eight. Craig was a member of the I.S.A.A. Golf Tournament winning team and shoots in the low 70's.....in grade eight!

Prize Day 1988

Seventeen members of the graduating class were Ontario Scholars. Albert Chan was head boy, closely followed by Steven DePiero (brother of Andrew '85), Duff McDonald and Ken Wong. All four finished with averages above 90%.

The graduating class was presented with boutonnieres compliments of The Ladies' Guild.

Head Prefect Michael Brewer delivers the valedictory. Michael was the winner of the Macdonald Medal, presented by the Association in honour of Dr. Macdonald to the graduating student most distinguished in studies and games taken together.

Brewer was a leader of the football team's two consecutive championships and led the first hockey team in each of his three years at St. Andrew's. In addition, he served as Second in Command of the Cadet Corps.

Adam AvRuskin accepts, on behalf of Sifton House, the Housser Trophy for Inter-Clan Competition. The trophy is named in honour of Harry B. Housser, one of the original students at St. Andrew's in Rosedale in 1899. Brigadier General John G. Housser '33 presents the trophy, assisted by Mr. Rupert Ray who co-ordinates clan activity at the school.

Reminiscences – Part II

J.L. Wright

The glory of the Independent School lies in its differences which emerge from everything that the School has ever been. It reflects the national struggles of each decade and the personalities of dedicated Masters and students. It reflects the generous attitudes and thoughtfulness of its Old Boys and parents. The desire to be of service to your old school, this family love, is surely what Independent education is all about. As I review some of the highlights of the early years, I think of the word "memories". How thin and hollow this life would be if we lost our sense and power of memory. Statements such as "will you ever forget" or "do you remember the time that" must spring to mind as you read these reminiscences.

In 1942 the usual format of the Cadet Corps activity changed. The dress uniforms were put into storage and the members of the corps outfitted in khaki drill shirts and stockings and shorts. Instruction in the use of the 303 Lee Enfield rifle, the Bren Gun and chemical warfare was offered. Selected members of the corps were bussed to the Newmarket Basic Training Centre – Advanced training in the use of the rifle, Bren Gun and Gas. The annual inspection was moved from the Malone (Lower) Field to the front quad. Many of you will remember one such inspection. During the display of Gas Drill the wind changed direction and the quad, the Houses and the audience were covered with pungent yellow smoke. The corps disappeared in clouds of gas. Respirators were quickly donned. The remainder of the inspection was carried on in the gymnasium.

In 1943 severe wartime restrictions prevented our teams from travelling to other schools such as Lakefield, Ridley and Trinity College School. Clan and House Leagues took up the slack and produced many interesting games.

Edward H. Crawford '43 Chairman and C.E.O. of The Canada Life Assurance Co. served on the Board of Governors of St. Andrew's for many years. Jack Wright remembers Major Ed Crawford in this segment of his reminiscences.

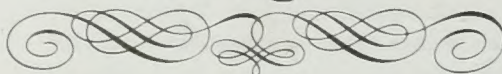

The Cadet Corps, too, underwent several changes. Under Major Ed Crawford, special features such as Bren Gun Drill and lectures on the Anti-tank gun, Sten Gun, Rifle, Grenade, Respirator and Revolver were developed and demonstrated. During the winter a Ski Platoon was formed. White parkas were issued by the army and field manoeuvres were carried out. One test consisted of skiing from the College, across the Holland Marsh to Bradford and back with a rifle slung across the shoulders. This activity was carried out on a Sunday under the direction of John Lowndes. Those who completed the trip successfully were presented with a badge that could be worn on the uniform. This Ski Platoon was the first of its kind to be formed in Canada. The Platoon returned in time for chapel.

As a main feature of the Inspection in 1943 a manoeuvre by an assault squad was demonstrated on the Malone Field. A replica of a German Pill Box was erected on the East side of the River Shad. Cadets in authentic German uniforms and helmets were to hold off a group who swung across the stream by way of ropes tied to the limbs of a tree in that area and attacked, using a smoke screen. Obstacles such as barbed wire had to be overcome. Lt. Col. K.M. Holloway commented, "This is the best demonstration I have ever seen in my life by any cadet corps".

Many students will be interested in knowing that in 1944 the S.A.C. Swimming Team won the Little Big Four title for the second successive time. Robertson, Sumner, Malcolmson and Elder were the key men.

Some of the older Old Boys will remember the occasion when "Beak" Hampson buzzed the school in a Harvard Training plane. After several passes when he just missed hitting the Chapel spire he flew over the Lower School football field and crashed in the pine trees on the hill. We raced to the scene in our cars and pulled him from the wreck. He was badly cut. He recovered and later flew in Europe.

As I write this I am listening to my radio. In the early forties radios were not permitted in the dorms. One day Mr. Tudball was inspecting a room in the upper flat of Flavell House. He was looking for dust. In those days each dorm was equipped with a dusting cloth that had to be put to use by the boys. As he ran his hand along the top of the wainscoting he pricked his finger on a piece of copper wire. Upon closer investigation he found a small radio hidden behind one of the panels. Yards of fine copper wire were pulled out of the woodwork. Barney Tudball shook with rage. The "inmates" were suitably dealt with! Speaking of highjinks, I shall never forget one chapel service. Mr. Gerry Wilkinson was the organist. The opening lines of a hymn had started only to be stopped almost immediately. The discords were ear splitting. Apparently some musically minded boys climbed into the organ loft before the service and rearranged many of the pipes. The organ was useless until a technician was brought to the school to correct the problem.

During the war we experienced certain food shortages. It was decided to produce some of our own food. A field to the west of the school was seeded with potatoes. When they had grown sufficiently the plants were treated with "paris green" to kill the bugs. Dr. Ouchterlony struggled up the rows with a large can in each hand filled with the poison. He was generously supported by Mike Adamson and Jack Wright. I remember driving these "farmers" up to the Plantation in my Lasalle car that was loaded with hoes and cans. The P.T. classes were sent to the field to harvest the spuds, which were taken to a root cellar near the power plant for storage. Of course the Bursar recognized the efforts of the younger boys. Each was paid five cents per eighty pound bag.

School spirit at S.A.C. during the war years was always high. Two groups of senior boys remain etched in my memory. "The Group" representing Memorial House under the leadership of Chipman and Shields and "De Mob" controlled by Howson and Little battled each other in seasonal games with high intensity.

The Lower School enrolment in 1944 stood at 73 boarders and 3 day boys. Lawrence, Laing and Brown III set high standards. Mr. Henderson joined the staff and excelled as a football coach. The Monitors were Taylor II, Horn, Worling I and Lewis. The Librarians were Capon, Sedgwick, Lindsay II and McLaughlin. The Ladies' Guild have always helped our Librarians. We received ten dollars from the Guild to purchase magazines.

I must mention scholastic achievements of boys in the early years. I can think of A.F.R. Brown who won four U of T entrance scholarships. He scored the highest aggregate in any nine papers in 1945. Scholastic Honours were also won by C.W. Eddis, F.S. Grant, W.M.E. Clarkson, D.S.

Fraser, J.L. Jarvis, L.G. Hampson, M.T. Wilson and J.A. O'Brian. Brown stood first in the Dominion of Canada for entrance into the Royal Canadian Naval College. He was only sixteen years old. D.G. Davis, noted actor, won a gold medal also.

In 1945 there were 212 boys in residence and 13 Day Boys. The First Football Team won the Little Big Four Football championship under coach "Hoary" Kendall. Stalwards such as Flemming, Middleton I, Errington I, Taylor and Shortly starred. The team was granted a show leave in Aurora in recognition.

You will be interested in knowing that in the "forties" smoking privileges were granted to boys in the Upper and Lower Sixth Forms. The Headmaster's study was the base of this activity. The room became known as "The Smoker"! The Headmaster provided the cigarettes and tobacco. How times have changed!

As I look back on the various "Saints" who toiled for S.A.C. I think of Miss Daisy Brooks who was the Headmaster's secretary for thirty-seven years, and also her sister, Bessie who assisted the Bursar. These gracious souls were friends and counsellor of many generations of boys. The School fee was $750, Day Boys $100 — weekly pocket money in the Upper School was seventy-five cents per week.

You will be surprised to know that a former Mathematics Master, Mr. Norman Lane participated in the Olympics in 1948 at Henley in a canoe race. He came in third just behind U.S.A. and Czechoslovakia. His paddle used to hang in the Tuck Shop. I wonder if it is still there?

Since the early years in Toronto,

S.A.C. has been a home for many boys from Latin America. Boys from Venezuela, Peru, Colombia, Mexico, Argentina, Dominican Republic, Cuba and Costa Rica have been enrolled at the school. The flags at the back of the chapel were presented by a representative from these countries. Names such as Mossman, Corona, Guzman,

Garcia, Bichenbach, Macorra, Hannan, Tejada, Martin, Wood, Sengaty, Gutierrez, Gonzalez, Rocha, Mazzie, Canas and many others "fought the good fight". Many have enrolled their sons and grandsons. Several played lead roles in the pipe band. The St. Andrew's Society in Mexico City boasts a complete pipe band made up of Old Boys. Jamie de la Macorra used to claim that his forebearers originally came from Scotland. They sailed to North America but storms forced them to Mexico where they rooted. Playing the bagpipes came naturally to him.

Headmaster Bob Bedard and his wife, Anne, with Old Boys' representative and Director of Development, Jim Herder '64 and his wife Gail, visited Nassau in March. Bob thanked the community for "sending so many" of their sons to St. Andrew's over the years at a reception held at the home of current parents Donald and Gia Kester.

Jim thanked the Bahamians for their support of the Dick Gibb Scholarship Fund and announced that the second recipient of the award was to be a Bahamian. In June, at Prize Day, Anthony Sam from Freeport was presented as the successful candidate.

Over fifty old boys and parents attended the reception and became the first audience for the School video "Quit Ye Like Men, Be Strong". The annual Cadet Inspection was held on a Saturday for the first time, enabling more people to attend. A large throng of parents, old boys and friends enjoyed themselves, while below recent '87 grads Graydon Cragg, Scott Armstrong and Paul Paletta compared this group to "their day".

'The sun, my witness' is proper translation

We at St. Andrew's College noted with pride town council's decision to adopt the St. Andrew's cross as the basis for its new flag. (Aurora approves design for new town flag – Banner May 18).

However we were anxious about the choice of motto. The picture shows the phrase "SOL MEUS TESTIS". The text claims boldly that this means "Where the Sun Always Shines".

We think this to be an unusually free translation. More precisely the words translate either as "THE SUN, MY WITNESS", or more probably, "THE SUN, MY TESTICLE".

Our town fathers seem either to have forgotten this second meaning, or to be developing a challenging sense of humor, which is sure to enliven future debates.

School News

Farewell, McNicols

Ordinary things like plowed roads, cold Pepsi, and mowed lawns are often taken for granted. So are the people who provide these ordinary things. We take them for granted too.

In 1988 we saw the retirement of two extraordinary – ordinary people. Isobel and Roy McNicol. For a total of 88 years, these deeply committed Andreans saw to it that the snow was plowed, the Pepsi kept cold in the Tuck Shop and the grass on our playing fields manicured.

Isobel or “Mabel” to 45 years of young Andreans came to the school as a kitchen helper. Soon she made the Tuck Shop her special domain and saw to it that morning and afternoon thirsts and hungers were satisfied. Roy, born on the farm at Pickering College, joined our groundskeeping team in 1945 and became its foreman and chief in charge of anxiety. His days often began at 4:30 a.m. (Mr. Smith would not have been happy coming up the hill on his bike and fighting 3” of fresh snow, would he?) Together Isobel and Roy gave the school a model commitment – to each other, to their daughter and grandchildren and above all to St. Andrew’s.

They often said that this was the only home they ever knew. Certainly no home ever received more loving and unheralded care.

Isobel and Roy have begun their retirement in their comfortable cottage on the shores of the Trent Canal. Their memories, all good ones, are all Andrean.

The staff presented them both with First Team sweater coats. They are First Team Andreans in every way!

This year's projects were of outstanding quality. The mandate was to pick up on Early Canadian life while spending “as little as possible” on the production of the projects.

1987-88 Annual Giving

The annual giving program at St. Andrew's continues to grow. Our target of 10% increase over the year earlier was not quite reached but we set records in dollars and donors. 842 Old Boys contributed $141,955. up from $130,343. in the year earlier. This is the fifth consecutive year we have set records in both categories!

Special congratulations to the year reps for 1983, 1984 and 1985. The '83 group added twenty-one new donors, a terrific effort and a very positive feeling for the future program. Thanks to Jim Good '68 and Charlie Edwards '70 for spearheading this successful program.

229 parents and past parents donated just over $130,000., with special thanks to Jim Ginou and Tom McQuillan for their support and guidance.

In all, $262,115. was received from the annual program, enabling continued improvement to the residences and campus to be carried out.

Your money was spent on an on-going internal program of manufacturing furniture for boys' rooms, in safety lighting for the campus and on new bathrooms in the residences.

In the following pages we invite you to read the names of supporters of St. Andrew's. If your name is not listed, we encourage you to join us and to support the college on an annual basis to enable us to continue to provide the facilities needed to educate our fine young men.

The Class of '88, as a leaving gift to St. Andrew's, gave this beautiful sculpture of a Polar Bear. It greatly enhances the school's fledging art collection.

In addition, the boys contributed to the Dick Gibb Scholarship Fund. It was the last group Dick would have known as students before his retirement.

Bequests

A most thoughtful gift

Funds received from bequests are added to the endowment of the school to provide scholarship and bursary assistance to students. The following thank you letter was received by David Dunlap '56, Chairman of the S.A.C. Foundation. Our endowment, at $1.7 million, is very small, providing only about $150,000 per year to worthy students.

We respectfully ask you to consider adding St. Andrew's to your will.

Dear Mr. Dunlap,

You must be getting used to reading these letters from me — this is the seventh — and they all have said the same thing. This year will probably be no exception, except that it is the last.

To devote seven years to a school is a major chapter in one's life. As the saying goes, "The Andrean Experience" has been good to me. There are certain things SAC has given me and taught me that nobody or nothing else could have, and my only means of thanks is the hope that I have given to it half of what it has given me.

What a wonderful and colourful experience St. Andrew's has been for me. I must once again, and finally, thank you and The S.A.C. Foundation for making this experience possible, and giving me all the opportunity in the world to excel, to challenge myself, and finally, to deal with the world outside our gates.

The time has come to move on, and I may only hope that McGill is as fine a place as St. Andrew's. Once again, thank-you.

Sincerely,

Souter, Stadium Corporation, Dr. & Mrs. V. Stein, Mr. & Mrs. P. Stuempel,

The Ladies' Guild of St. Andrew's and the S.A.C. Association jointly held a great, fun-filled, fund raiser, dinner dance in Toronto in April.

In all, $74,000 was raised for specific projects at St. Andrew's. The Ladies' Guild is to be congratulated for its scholarship and the complete re-decoration and refurbishing of the Flavelle House common room. Mac House's common room will be done this year.

Live Auctioneer, Bob Ball '67, added considerable humour to the evening, and as the names on this page attribute — it was a team effort all the way!

Special thanks from all of us to Stephanie Manning, mother of Shane (grade 11) and Rory (grade 9), for her tremendous organization in chairing the event.

Association Dinner

Charlie Edwards presents Geoff with an appropriate Headmaster's briefcase, and a replacement knapsack!

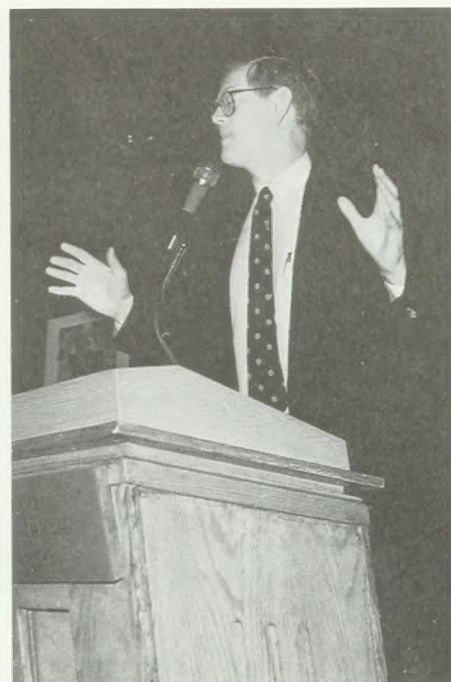

The Association's guest of honour for the evening was Geoffrey R. Smith who leaves us to become Headmaster of King's – Edgehill in Windsor, Nova Scotia.

Headmaster Bob Bedard gave a witty tribute to Geoff's outstanding 24 year career at S.A.C. Charlie Edwards '70, on behalf of Andreans everywhere, presented him with several gifts to remember us by.

Geoff was Charlie's coach in football, basketball and rugby and Charlie broke Geoff's nose in each of the three seasons!

To say that Geoff was involved in the school life and the lives of a couple of thousand Andreans is putting it mildly. Mr. Smith has had a virtual lock on the Award presented annually to the staff member "meaning the most" to the graduating class.

Geoff's contribution to the daily life of the school will be sorely missed, and on behalf of Andreans everywhere from 1964-1988, we wish him and Ginny nothing but happiness.

"Alright look"! Geoff Smith says goodbye to the Andrean community. (We tried to find a photo with his eyes open – honest!)

Greg McGinnis '86 gives Assistant Headmaster Peter Stuart a few pointers on university life at U. of T.

Malcolm Black '62: (back to camera,) greets Iain Gurr '61 and Barry Thomson '61 at the Annual Dinner.

Association Dinner

Incoming Association President John Housser '68 gets some stock tips from his father John '33.

'61 classmates enjoyed the video (l-r) Dan Routledge, Doug Rowan, Barry Thomson, David Rogers, Iain Gurr and Art Kayser.

Old boys from the 60's will remember Ex-staff members Gasper Guggino and Fred Colburn.

A boy and his dream

Alan Crawford, a North Toronto boy, had a dream — a dream not unlike that of many Canadian boys growing up in a hockey hotbed. He wanted to be a professional hockey player.

Crawford began playing hockey at the age of seven. He was taken to the rink every Sunday by his father and played in the North Toronto Hockey Association until the age of twelve. By his own admission he was "the worst player on all the teams I played for".

However, young Crawford persevered. Every summer he would go to hockey camp. He worked so hard that by 13 he was starring in the Metropolitan Toronto Hockey League. At 15 he was told by coaches in the M.T.H.L. that if he kept working at his game he may have a shot at the N.H.L.! By 16 he was playing on 5 different teams in 5 different leagues — playing every day, sometimes twice a day.

Crawford had become an extremely skilled centreman. He had all the tools, skating, puck-handling, passing and shooting. However, he lacked size and more importantly, good grades at school.

Enter St. Andrew's College. St. Andrew's offered the academic discipline he needed. It also offered a sports program second to none and its hockey team, laden with tradition, was a perennial force at the annual Ontario High School Hockey Tournament. The school has graduated former Maple Leaf and Pittsburgh Penguin Greg Hotham, as well as Leaf great Bobby Baun's two sons and Carl Brewer's son, Michael.

Crawford made the varsity team in grade 11, his first at the school, and by grade 13 he was chosen captain of the hockey team. His marks had improved tremendously. He quarterbacked the varsity football team, and was elected a prefect by teachers and the student body. Obviously St. Andrew's was agreeing with him.

The highlight of his S.A.C. days took place at the Ontario High School Hockey Tournament in 1982. The captain scored the winning goal and he led S.A.C. to the championship with a 3-2 win over the Fort Frances Muskies and a partisan Fort Frances crowd. This was the first time an independent school had ever won O.F.S.S.A. He remembers being overjoyed but also a bit sad, wondering if this was the end of the road for him in hockey.

Two S.A.C. teammates had been drafted by N.H.L. teams and others offered scholarships at U.S. universities. However, at 5'6" and 170 pounds it was becoming increasingly evident that N.H.L. scouts thought him too small.

Crawford turned his attention to McGill University where he majored in journalism. He liked Montreal and the University. That fall he did what he had always done. Playing against older, bigger and more experienced players, he made the McGill team as a walk-on.

The team enjoyed success in Crawford's two years there. In his second year they travelled to Switzerland to play five games against the Swiss national "A" teams. McGill won all five games and he had an outstanding tournament. Against the top team and in front of 6,000 fans, McGill came out on top 3-2, with Crawford scoring two goals. After the game he was the first one out of the dressing room, and to his surprise the fans recognized him and started shouting "numero trieze, numero trieze, Crawford, Crawford" and swarmed him for his autograph. As Crawford recalls it was his one night as a star!

Though teammates were offered contracts to play in the Swiss League, none came his way. Back in Montreal and finishing off his second year at McGill, Crawford got the break he was hoping for. An international sports agent told him he was a valuable commodity in France. Teams were interested in his services because his type of play suited the larger ice surface. Also, Crawford was born in France, which meant he was not an "import". The Villard De Lans team signed him to his first pro contract in the summer of 1984. His dream had come true.

Crawford's start in France was less than auspicious; the calibre of play was much better than he had anticipated, and he began to worry. However, he rose to the challenge, and in his fourth game he scored four goals.

Big Al, as Crawford is affectionately called by his teammates and friends alike, returned to Toronto, and the classroom, and completed his degree at Glendon College. Says Crawford, "I'm leaning towards a career as a teacher. I enjoy working with kids and think it would be very rewarding."

Incidentally, in Crawford's spare time you can find him working with young hockey players in the North Toronto area, where he is Head Instructor of the North Toronto Hockey Association's Continuing Skills Program. "It's a way for me to stay in touch with the game and give kids the same opportunity I was given", says Crawford. Undoubtedly, some of them will go on to wear the red and white of the S.A.C. Saints, and for a lucky few like Alan Crawford, their dream may one day become a reality.

Running for Canada

June 10, 1988

Dear Mr. Herder:

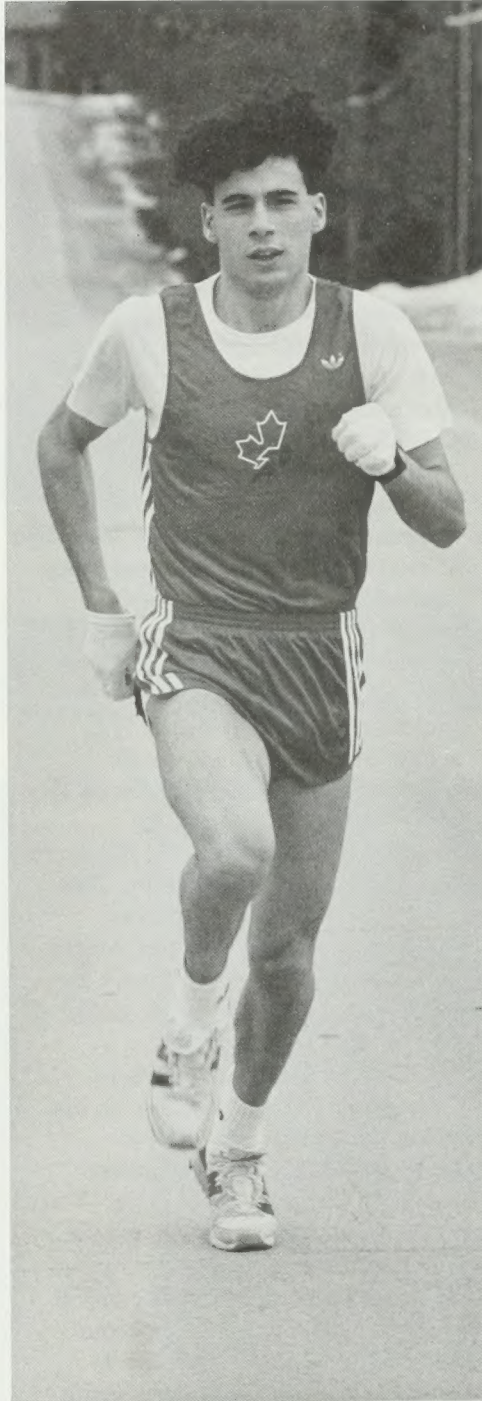

I would like to thank you and the Old Boys' Association for the financial support I received. If not for the aid, I would not have finished third at the Fukuoka Cross-Country race in Japan and would not have been the third counting Canadian Junior in Auckland, New Zealand at the World Cross-Country Championships!

On top of the competing experience there was much more. The people were so friendly both in Japan and New Zealand and were willing to do everything possible to make their guests comfortable and happy. This courtesy was much appreciated when I managed to lose my way in the city!

It's a relief to see that New Zealand was not all downtown core, instead it was much like the beautiful metropolis of Richmond Hill, plus a beach, tall buildings and a few volcanoes. The Kiwis did their best to accommodate the athletes of the world in a friendly manner.

Once again I would like to thank the old boys for what I have learned. My experience on the other side of the world is priceless.

Sincerely
Nick Tsioros
SAC 1982-1988

Nick Tsioros, a school prefect and graduate of '88, has had quite a summer.

Prior to the national track and field championships in Sudbury, Tsioros felt he might not make the team with his performance in the 5,000-metre race. "I got nervous about the standard; I thought just in case I better enter another race."

Days before the actual competition, the Richmond Hill 19-year-old realized there was a 15-kilometre race with no time standard, so he registered in this event as well. His instinct turned out to be well-founded.

Tsioros placed fifth in the 5,000 metres in a time of 15 minutes, 1.95 seconds. That was more than 35 seconds off the qualifying time of 14:25.

But he ended up winning the 15-kilometre race and earning himself a spot on the national team.

At the world championships Tsioros had to run a bit further than he did at the nationals — 5 kilometres to be exact. That's because there is only a 20-kilometre race at the World Junior Games.

However that did not faze him at all, and he finished 11th in the field of 32 runners. The next best Canadian was 27th. Nick also shattered his own best time for the event.

Nick will attend Boston University in the fall and will continue his long distance running career there.

Lloyd C. MacPherson

1916 – 1988

Lloyd Campbell MacPherson passed away in Nova Scotia on March 25, 1988. The following article appeared in the 1982 Review, on the occasion of Lloyd's retirement, after 25 years at the school.

Lloyd MacPherson has been Mr. Everything at S.A.C. It would be difficult to find an area of the school which does not bear his mark. He has counted spats in the Cadet store, beakers in the Science wing, beds in Fourth house, credits in the office, spotlights on stage, and boys everywhere. He has revealed the history of the school to three thousand new boys on Day One. He has filled out thousands of timetables and university applications. He has curled, he has cheered on our teams. As the voice of S.A.C. on the P.A. system and at Cadet Inspections, as Head of Science, as first Housemaster of "Fourth" house, Member of the Board of Governors, and Assistant Headmaster, he is St. Andrew's.

From MacLellan's Brook, N.S., to Mount Allison and Cornell, he made tracks to Stanstead College, P.Q., where he settled for sixteen years and became Headmaster. Then at the age of forty came the kind of revelation that happened to St. Paul on the road to Damascus. L.C.M. found Scotland! He lost his hair under a tam; his girth increased to fill a kilt; he intoned himself with claymore and claybeg, crummock and jabot, schist and schlager. He visited Scotland a score of times, becoming Chairman of the Clan MacPherson. And he moved to S.A.C..

At S.A.C., he embellished the Scottish Fact, with clans and pipes and drambuie; epitomized by the new boy's traumatic indoctrination to the haggis on the annual St. Andrew's Night dinner. For a moment, at least, we all become Scots even though our name be Bedard, Suinaga or Germain.

L.C.M. was perhaps the last in the tradition of great bachelor masters. He collected churches, glass and walking sticks, books and convertibles. With the latter, he would drive boys, boisterous after lights out, a few miles west of the school and drop them off to find their own way back down the ghostly St. John's side road. And anyone finding E.R.'s tough should be thankful he isn't pushing a convertible round the quad, with the Laird stabbing the brakes every now and then to offer resistance.

Away from the school, his interests were wide and curious. He was man of the church in three ways: in name (Son of the Parson), as an Elder of the United Church, and as the owner of two residential churches.

L.C.M. was always interested in protocol and ceremony, ancestry and heraldry; he knew all about lions couchant and bars sinister; he had his own family crest, and he was responsible for the school gaining its legitimate coat of arms. One of his delights was the stage. He theatre hopped in Stratford, Toronto, New York and London. Appearing in many shows himself, he was an expert in stagecraft and prop making. On the school stage, he had a string of directing credits, with "Billy Budd," "Ross," and "Man For All Seasons" paramount.

From all Andreans, we revere the memory of the Spirit of S.A.C., the Laird of Pottageville, our own 49th Highlander, Lloyd Campbell MacPherson.

D.J. Timms

In memoriam donations received by the school have started a Lloyd C. MacPherson Chapel Fund. The first project to be undertaken by this fund will be to purchase new choir gowns.

In addition, the school was touched by the receipt of a bequest from Lloyd's estate which will be added to the Special Chapel Fund.
